Home Learning Newsletter

Welcome back to issue 10 of our Home Learning Newsletter and like every week so far, you have been busy learning and being creative at home this week.

Science week

Normally we would be having our annual Science week now, so Mrs Roberts has set you some fun Science investigations to do at home. Follow this link to find the full list of investigation ideas:

<https://www.maybury.surrey.sch.uk/page/?title=Science+week&pid=426>. Try to complete one a day using the things you have around the house. Remember when you are conducting your science experiments to think about what skills you are using. What do you predict will happen? Are you making it a fair test? What are your variables? What did you find out? Can you draw a table for your results? Can you write a conclusion? Remember to keep sharing your photos like the children below have done!

Times Table Rock Stars

Over the past couple of weeks we had had a girls verses boys competition on TTRs. The results can be seen in the table below:

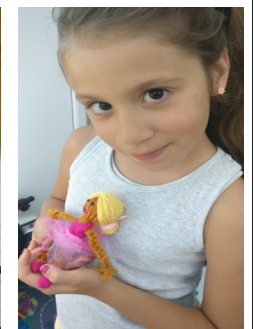

Girls	Boys	Winners
8,484	103,176	Boys

Well done a clear victory for the boys! We will be running a new competition starting today and ending on 1st July. The competitions will be: Sea Horses verses Jellyfish; Manta Rays verses Angelfish; and Sea Turtles verses Dolphins.

Creativity at home

This week you have continued to be creative at home. You have been busy painting, drawing, den making, cooking and much more. It is a good idea to keep your mind busy and a good opportunity to try new hobbies.

Enjoying the outdoors

You have continued to keep fit and enjoy the outdoors this week. Remember that the natural chemicals that are released by your body during exercise are great for making you feel good!

Keep in contact

Keep sending home learning photos to: homelearning@maybury.surrey.sch.uk. Only send photos and videos if you are happy for them to appear on the newsletter and website. Remember to keep checking the website every day to find the new home learning for that day—these are a guide for what you can do but don't worry if you don't complete everything.
