What Is Ramadan?
Ramadan is an Islamic festival that is celebrated by Muslims. The festival begins at different times for Muslims depending on when the new moon is first sighted. It lasts from dawn until sunset for 29 or 30 days. Ramadan is a very important time for Muslims and is celebrated all over the world. During Ramadan, Muslims pray and fast.

Why Do Muslims Fast?
Each day during the month of Ramadan, Muslims all over the world do not eat or drink from dawn until sunset. At the end of the day (after sunset), Muslim families will often all eat together and celebrate their day of fasting. Fasting is meant to teach Muslims to be self-disciplined. The prophet Muhammad was one of the first Muslims to fast - other Muslims follow his example.

How Do Muslims Mark the End of Ramadan?
The end of Ramadan is a big celebration called ‘Eid al-Fitr’: The Festival of the Breaking of the Fast. Muslims celebrate the end of fasting and thank Allah for helping them to be strong enough to fast. Eid al-Fitr officially begins when the new moon is first seen in the sky.

How Is Eid al-Fitr Celebrated?
On the first morning of Eid al-Fitr, many Muslims meet for special prayers and have breakfast. They put on their best clothes for what will be their first meal in daylight for a month. At their meal, Muslims will often give gifts and cards to each other. Celebrations continue for up to three days and usually include: gatherings to view the new moon; decorating homes inside and out; family visits; eating special foods; neighbourhood parties and wearing special, new clothes. People wish each other ‘Eid Mubarak’ (Blessed Eid) or ‘Eid Said’ (Happy Eid).
